We are seeking to appoint two enthusiastic and collaborative early- to mid-career academics to assist our current Faculty in providing teaching and research supervision on our University of London undergraduate LL.B. programme. Applicants must have an undergraduate degree in law and a Ph.D. (or be near completion of a Ph.D.) and ideally also some previous experience of teaching and/or dissertation supervision, or a professional qualification as a solicitor, barrister or advocate.

About the Institute of Law

Founded in 2008, the Institute of Law is an independent, not-for-profit body based in Jersey, providing academic and professional legal education. With an emphasis on promoting knowledge and learning through first-class teaching and research, the Institute offers innovative programmes ranging from the prestigious University of London LL.B. and a double degree with the University of Toulouse, to higher degrees in Jersey law and professional qualifications for advocates and solicitors throughout the Channel Islands. The Institute offers students small classes in a personalised and friendly learning environment.

About Jersey

The Institute of Law is based in a world-leading international legal and financial centre, with beautiful beaches and easy access to a great lifestyle. Jersey is a wonderful place for early- to mid-career academics to gain experience teaching on a world-leading degree course, while experiencing the best that life has to offer, including a wide range of outdoor activities and lively bars and cafes. Jersey is also located less than one hour from London and Paris, with excellent transport connections, so that successful candidates can easily enjoy travel to the UK and further afield, to Europe, while they are working on island.

Your Teaching

Our teaching delivery consists of whole group lectures complemented by small group tutorials. Visiting Teaching Fellows will be expected to teach lectures and tutorials across at least three modules, with around 180 hours of contact teaching during the year, plus office hours and personal tutoring appointments. You will also be involved in the design and marking of formative assessments.

We are seeking applicants who would be able to contribute to any 3 of the following modules Public Law, Criminal Law, Legal System and Method (all Level 4) and Jurisprudence and Property Law (Level 6)

Level 4:

- Contract Law
- Criminal Law
- Legal System and Method
- Public Law

Level 5:

- Tort Law
- Commercial Law
- EU Law
- Family Law
- International Protection of Human Rights
- Property Law

Level 6:

- Jurisprudence and Legal Theory
- Company Law
- Conflict of Laws*
- Criminology
- Dissertation
- Equity and Trusts
- International Commercial Law*
- Public International Law*

Further information about these modules, including a brief syllabus, is available on the University of London's website at <https://london.ac.uk/standard-entry-route>.

Your Accommodation

The Institute provides high-quality accommodation for its Visiting Teaching Fellows whilst you are on-island. Subject to availability, this might be in self-contained winter let accommodation such as the Merton Suites in St Helier (<https://www.seymourhotels.com/merton-hotel/self-catering-suites>), or in accommodation with a private room with en-suite bathroom, and a range of shared facilities including kitchen, dining, and lounge areas, such as Peterborough House at St Aubin (<https://www.airbnb.co.uk/rooms/50982955>).

What do our staff think?

Chitzi, one of this year's Visiting Teaching Fellows, says, "The team has been amazing! They create a supportive environment, and the students and the people of Jersey have just been excellent. I'm really happy that I did my visiting fellowship here, and this now is my second home."

Sasha, our Associate Dean, agrees: "We have loved having our Visiting Fellows here this year, and for anybody who's thinking about joining us next year it is such a great team to join, at such a good time. They will get fantastic teaching experience with engaged students in small groups, and they will get to know each and every one of their students, too. They will also be able to get experience organising conferences and get academic management experience that they just wouldn't find anywhere else in the same way. Overall, it's a great law school and a fantastic on-island living experience."
